

Standing Strong with Transparency and Integrity

Quasar Allegations

At Quasar, our mission is to provide quality and variety in the scripts we work so hard to develop, so that servers feel as complete as possible. If every time someone releases a script similar to one already available in other well-known stores they are accused in this way—taking things out of context—then it ignores the reality that both Tebex and CFX actively protect developers through clear rules that all of us must follow.

Our focus has always been growth. Whenever someone releases products similar to ours, we have never made it an issue; instead, it motivates us to improve what we already have, and we believe others should see it the same way. We also collaborate with many talented developers to ensure the best possible gameplay experience. That's why following unofficial sources or rumors is misplaced.

We are aware that Quasar's name carries weight, and with that comes the challenge of dealing with situations like these more often than most. Some of the recent events will be addressed in due time once legal aspects allow us to do so.

Instead of engaging in these practices, we believe that stores should focus on improving their products and fostering healthy competition, which ultimately benefits the community as a whole.

How have the code comparisons been made?

We used the Cursor AI editor and uploaded the Escrowed scripts and our complete open source to this platform to make the comparison as complete and exhaustive as possible.

Final Conclusion

Quasar may be defamed, but we will always stand here, ready and willing to disprove false claims. You do not need to worry.

Fast Conclusion.

- Our assets: will continue to function normally.
- We will keep delivering regular updates: daily or weekly in many cases.
- Everything we build is done for you and with you,: our beloved community.

Together, we are strong. We will not allow anyone to harm us or spread lies about the creations and work that we have poured our passion into.

If someone comes forward pretending to act as a “superhero” on behalf of Tebex or CFX, remember this: the only legitimate authority is Tebex and CFX themselves.

If you ever have doubts, questions, or simply want peace of mind, we encourage you to take the proper step and file a report directly with Tebex here:
